The amendment filed July 21, 2005 has been entered and made of record as paper no. 0705.

The specification has not been checked to the extent necessary to determine the presence of all possible minor errors. Applicant's cooperation is requested in correcting any errors of which applicant may become aware in the specification.

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Rigg et al (US 2005/0104228 A1).

Rigg discloses a semiconductor processing method for forming an electrical contact comprising a semiconductor substrate (212), a layer over the substrate (350 or 351); forming an opening through the layer and to the surface of the substrate, a periphery of the opening including an electrically conductive portion of the electrically conductive node (230); and electroless plating a conductive material (371) within the opening and forming an electrical contact to the electrically node (230). Note paragraph [0038] of Rigg.

In re claim 2, layer (350 and 351) in Rigg is insulative layer.

In re claim 6, it is known that insulating layer comprising BPSG.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 8-13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Rigg in view of Kirby et al (US 2005/0186777 A1).

Rigg discloses all the subject matter discussed above; however Rigg does not teach the electroless-plated conductive material comprising nickel. Kirby disclose in paragraph [0081] that electroless-plated conductive material comprising nickel. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to use the teachings of Kirby to use nickel for electroless plating in Rigg's device.

Claims 14-34 are allowed.

The other references are cited to show other structures pertinent to Applicants' disclosure. All of these references teach about electroless plating.
